City Bank donates funding to West Texas Food Bank During COVID-19 Pandemic

LUBBOCK, TX – City Bank presented a $20,000 check to the West Texas Food Bank to provide immediate assistance to the Permian Basin during the COVID-19 pandemic.

“This donation will make a huge impact in helping us provide much needed resources in the communities we serve. We are happy to have City Bank join us in helping feed families during these uncertain times,” said Libby Campbell, executive director of West Texas Food Bank

While City Bank is a longtime supporter of the mission to end hunger, this is the company’s first donation to the West Texas Food Bank.

“City Bank is passionate about giving back to the communities in which we serve. The work of the West Texas Food Bank is crucial in these unprecedented times and we are proud to assist them in meeting the critical basic needs of those who are struggling,” said Art Hobbs, City Bank Senior Vice President and Market President for the Permian Basin.

City Bank entered to the Permian Basin market in November and now serves the area with locations in Midland, Odessa, Monahans, Kermit and Fort Stockton.

With more than $3 billion in assets and 36 locations, City Bank has developed a rich history throughout Texas and New Mexico. Headquartered in Lubbock, City Bank fosters a corporate culture that has come to redefine community banking. City Bank is committed to offering its customers revolutionary products and services to stay in touch with their financial needs. Additional banking services include mortgage lending, trust, insurance, investments, indirect lending, and private banking.

About the West Texas Food Bank

The West Texas Food Bank (WTFB) is a nonprofit hunger relief organization who distributes donated and purchased food through a network of over 80 Partner Agencies in 19 counties throughout West Texas. WTFB supports the nutritional needs of children, families and senior citizens through strategic partnerships with civic and corporate groups, as well as private donors. Every dollar donated helps provide four meals for the hungry, and 92 cents of every dollar goes directly to feed hungry West Texans. Founded in 1985, WTFB is a member of Feeding America (feedingamerica.org), the nation’s largest network of hunger relief organizations. In 2019, roughly 6.5 million pounds of food was distributed to hungry West Texans.
